Founded in 1975 as the Monroe County Arts Council, PoconoArts is the oldest and most established local arts service organization in the Pocono region of northeastern Pennsylvania. It serves as a "Chamber of Commerce" or umbrella organization for artists and arts organizations in all disciplines, as well as the resident and tourist populations of the area.

Continued growth, support and diversification of the region's cultural community led PoconoArts to move to professional status and appoint a full time Executive Director in 1992. Today, the Council staff, along with a volunteer board and committee members, works diligently to promote the Council as the region's leading art service, education and advocacy organization.
